In 1968, Anibal Costanso embarked on an adventure, leaving his bakery life in Buenos Aires for a new start in the US. He began as a baker in New York and, remarkably, within just four years, he found himself owning his own business. Fast forward to 1972, Anibal and his family launched El Molino Argentina in Queens, and after a stint back in Argentina, they returned in 1985 to establish Buenos Aires Bakery. This later transformed into Buenos Aires Bakery & Café in Miami Beach, later expanding to Pembroke Pines. Over the years, these spots grew in size, but not at the expense of their authenticity. With a rich history of more than four decades, Buenos Aires Bakery & Café is dedicated to sharing a genuine taste of Argentina with everyone they serve.
